

Posted July 2009

• > Home > Portugal villa rental > Villas in Portugal & Port wine

Villas in Portugal & Port wine

Print page Email story to a friend

Porto, Portugal is a delightful old town which has been named a UNESCO World Heritage Site. The city of Porto features amazing buildings representing various eras of Portugal's history, from the medieval to the present time, all of which you can enjoy when you book holiday villas in Portugal.

Porto

During the month of February, Porto is a feast to the eyes when the almond, apple, orange and pear trees are full of lovely blossoms. Search VillasPeople.com for your ideal villas in Portugal and don't forget that Porto is the centre of Portugal's velvety sweet Port Wine.

Port Wine & Duoro River Valley

Port wine or Oporto is a delicious fortified wine made with grapes grown in the rugged Duoro River Valley in the region of Porto, North Portugal. There are various types of Port wine from sweet to dry and they can be vintage, red, tawny or white.

Its very special taste comes from the brandy added during fermentation. The most popular time to enjoy a good Port is after dinner. These are some of the names of some good Port wines: Churchill, Calem, Cockburns and Sandeman.

Restaurants in Porto

Dishes that should not be missed when eating in restaurants in Porto are: bacalhau (salted cod) and tripas do Porto (tripe with white beans), delicious! There are some excellent restaurants in Porto, for instance: Restaurante Adega Tipica de Souto serves traditional food and Porto Cafe Majestic boasts 1920's decor.

Tromba Rija specialises in traditional Portuguese flavours and the Barao Fladgate has a great view with lovely seafood and fish. Enjoy the fabulous restaurants in Porto and do not forget to sip a glass of Port wine after dinner.